Congratulations

Hailey Cleek, a student in Wake Forest University's JD/MA in Bioethics joint degree program, has been appointed the Senior Articles Editor on the Wake Forest Law Review's Board of Editors.

The Senior Articles Editor works with other Articles Editors on Law Review to evaluate articles for possible publication. The Senior Articles Editor contacts authors in order to make publication offers and to consummate any agreements to publish. After consulting with the Articles committee and with the Editor in Chief, the Senior Articles Editor may extend an offer to a potential author. To submit an article for consideration, please see Scholastica.

The Wake Forest Law Review is a legal periodical typically published five times a year: September, October, December, April, and May. The Law Review contains articles written by legal scholars, judges, practitioners, and academics, as well as case notes, comments, and empirical studies written by students of Wake Forest University School of Law.

Save the Date

May 3 & 4, 2018 Aging Re-Imagined. This is a multidisciplinary symposium about aging that aims to bring world-class speakers about aging-related issues to the Winston-Salem community. In 2016, the symposium hosted over 300 people, with approximately half from academia and half from the community. This is your place to come & learn with others about different aspects of aging with artists, clinicians, community members & researchers. Wake Forest University, Bridger Field House, 499 Deacon Boulevard, Winston-Salem, NC 27105.

Visit our website for details: <http://agingre-imagined.events.wfu.edu/>.

Registration: <https://wfu.cvent.com/AgingRe-Imagined2018>

The speakers this year are:

Ashton Applewhite - "This Chair Rocks-How Ageism Warps Our View of Long Life"

A self-described activist about ageism and author of:
This Chair Rocks: A Manifesto Against Ageism

Dan Gasby - "Alzheimer's disease Care-giving"

A former executive in the entertainment industry who is now a powerful advocate for people with Alzheimer's disease and their carers, particularly in the African-American community, which is disproportionately affected by the disease. He will be presenting on his experiences as well as his book, "Before I Forget" which has been described as a valentine to his wife, restaurateur, magazine publisher, and celebrity Chef, B. Smith.

Graduate Program in Bioethics

The Bioethics Graduate Program at Wake Forest University is accepting applications for Fall 2018 admission.

The Program provides an educational opportunity in bioethics for current and future professionals, including health care providers, researchers in biomedicine and the life sciences, lawyers, and professionals in health and research administration and the biotechnology industry. The program is attractive to working professionals as well as students in pre-health, pre-law, and humanities programs who will continue onto professional schools and/or doctoral programs. The students in the Bioethics program bring a diversity of academic, employment, and life experiences to the classroom. The program faculty is nationally recognized in the field of bioethics.

The small class sizes and versatile curricular options enable students to tailor the program to their individual interests. The program emphasizes face-to-face interaction, promotes scholarly and interpersonal communicative capabilities, and fosters close relationships among students, faculty and alumni.

The Graduate Program offers a Master of Arts degree and three Graduate Certificate options, as well as several joint degree options. The program is flexible for both full and part-time study. For more information, including program philosophy, course and faculty listings, and application procedures, please contact Vicky Zickmund, (336-716-1499) as well as visit the website:
